

CULPEPPER JOURNALISM FOUNDATION

CJF Fellowship Application Summer 2025

The Culpepper Journalism Foundation is an organization that awards honorariums (up to $1,000 for tuition) to underclassmen at Broward County public high schools. The fellowships help them attend summer journalism programs at universities. They must return to their high school staffs and be mentors to their classmates. The CJF was established in 1997 in honor of Dr. Alyce Culpepper, the 1986 Dow Jones National High School Journalism Teacher of the Year. As the first journalism teacher at South Plantation High, she began the school's award-winning newspaper, literary magazine, yearbook and broadcast programs.

The completed application must be submitted by April 1, 2025 and all parts emailed to culpepperjrf@aol.com including the media samples. Spend time on the Essays, Journalism Experiences/Leadership Roles and School and Community Activities/Service/that you submit on separate pages. The journalism/media teacher recommendation must be submitted on letterhead. Currently, no online programs will be funded because the purpose of the Summer Fellowship is to spend time on a university campus. If you must send a deposit and then receive a CJF fellowship, your deposit will be reimbursed to you as part of the tuition payment. If you may qualify for financial assistance, apply for it by the university deadline.

If my child, _____, accepts the CJF Fellowship, we agree to his/her attendance at a university program and him/her continuing to participate in the journalism a class at the school. If, for any reason, he/she does not work on a staff during the year after receiving the fellowship, we agree to reimburse the Culpepper Journalism Foundation for the amount received.
